

NO Doubt exists as to the present sentiment of the country. It is—"Let us get at 'em."

The Evening Herald

T.R. Organizing a brigade is a lot more popular than T.R. trying to run for president.

REPLY OF CARRANZA IS EXPECTED TO BE HANDED TO SPECIAL AGENT BY TONIGHT

Rodgers Telegraphs Briefly That He Anticipates Being Able to Forward First Chief's Note Sometime Today.

THIS PROBABLY LAST DAY FOR CAPTIVES' RELEASE

Delay Thought to Be Due to First Chief's Hope of Securing Endorsement of His Course from Latin-American Nations.

(By Evening Herald Leased Wire)
Washington, June 28.—Secretary Lansing announced late today that nothing further had been heard from Special Agent Rodgers at Mexico City, and that the state department had no information of when the reply of Carranza would be sent or what would be its nature.

Washington, June 28.—Special Agent Rodgers at Mexico City in a brief telegram dated yesterday and received at the state department early today, said he expected to be handed today Carranza's reply to the American note demanding the release of soldiers taken prisoner at Carrizal.

The message, containing but two sentences, was the first word the department had heard from Mr. Rodgers since he reported the delivery of the note. It said it was believed the Mexican authorities were investigating the Carrizal affair but gave no indication of what would be the reply in the American demands.

This was regarded by Washington officials as the crucial day in beginning negotiations with Mexico.

It was probably the last day allowing General Carranza in which to comply with the United States demand for release of twenty-three troopers held as prisoners at Chihuahua City. If his reply, either by act or in a communication, does not arrive by tonight, or if it is unsatisfactory, President Wilson is determined to go before Congress probably tomorrow and ask authority to rescue the prisoners by force. Anything short of the release of the American troopers will be unsatisfactory. No suggestions or proposals of negotiations in this regard will be accepted.

It was pointed out today that Secretary Lansing's note presenting the demand sought to open no discussion of the Carrizal incident. The fact that the men were captured and were being held was viewed as a hostile act requiring immediate retaliation by the de facto government.

Mr. Rodgers' statement that Carranza officials appeared to be conducting an inquiry into the Carrizal clash was interpreted here as indicating rather that the reply would support previous assertions that American troops were responsible than that a change of attitude was to be expected.

El Paso, Tex., June 28.—A number of complaints were filed with the Mexican consulate today by Mexicans from the neighborhood of Hatchet, N. M., who alleged that they have been roughly handled and mistreated during the investigation into the murder of Mr. and Mrs. William Parker. A number say they were beaten up at night in a town where they are now being held.

INVESTIGATE RUMOR THAT RAIDERS MEET DEATH AT HANDS OF PURSUING CAVALRY

Reported Band of Six Marauders Who Yesterday Murdered New Mexico Ranchman and His Wife Slain This Side of Border

COWPUNCHERS CROSS THE LINE IN BANDIT CHASE

Fresh Complications Feared as Result of Following of Hot Trail by Stockmen from Dimond-A and U-Bar Outfits.

(By Evening Herald Leased Wire)
Columbus, N. M., June 28.—Armored horses have been investigating a report that the members of William Parker and his wife, ranchers near the tip of the American Union Against Militarism. Dr. David Sauer Jordan announced this morning the conference is hoped to start with Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

A message received by a relative of the Parkers said that the bodies of the members were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.

The other delegates of the Parkers and their families, six in number, were wiped out.

It was reported today that while members of the Dimond-A ranch nine miles east of Hatchet, just across the border, were investigating the bodies of the Parkers, several men saw the disease said he did not know when they would arrive, owing to the disturbed condition of Mexico.